Tom Hassenboehler

Vice President of Policy Development and Legislative Affairs

As Vice President of Policy Development and Legislative Affairs, Tom Hassenboehler helps develop policy recommendations to put to greater use the nation's vast domestic natural gas supplies to create jobs, reduce U.S. dependence on foreign oil and improve air quality.

Tom comes to ANGA with a strong background in energy and environmental policy and political affairs. He joined ANGA in 2011 after nearly a decade on Capitol Hill, serving as Minority Counsel to the Senate Committee on Environment & Public Works, and as Counsel on the House Energy and Commerce Committee. In these roles, he helped develop floor strategies for the consideration of several key energy and environmental bills.

Tom previously worked in the offices of former Reps. Billy Tauzin (R-LA) and Bob Riley (R-AL). He earned both a bachelor's degree and juris doctorate from Louisiana State University.
